Woman's College Decides to Enter and Others Will Follow. The Blackstone Proposition.

A long stride in the direction of the colleges of the State was taken yesterday in the course of an all-day session of the Education Commission of the General Association of Virginia hald at the Second Baptist Church in this city.

Five institutions have already applied and others are preparing to come in. The trustees of the Woman's College met yesterday, or a committee thereof, and decided to enter the league, and Richlike suit at an early date. The five schools that have already signified their of this city; the Virgina Institute at Bristol; the Rawlings Institute, at Char lottesville; the Southside Acadamy, at Chaso City, and the Fork Union Acad-

If all of the conditions are met they will be formally enrolled in the league. Richmond Colloge, Roamo to Cellege and others are expected to follow very shortly. Plans will then be made for a State campaign, and a great sum of money will be raised, the sum being devoted to the payment of debts on the different schools and the general improvement of their standing. The commission appointed committees as 101 cows: ommittees will now investigate as to To arrange for campaign and suggest names of financial agents—Dr. W. R. L. Smith. of this city; Judge W. R. Mrs. Williams was the last one. A few days ago I had to break the fee in Gillie's Creek to baptize three persons, but there was no fee in the creek when I immersed her. She has been very sick, and was sick Wednesday, though not in hed. She has consumption. She experienced no ill effects from the baptism, and was at church Wednesday night.

"While we believe in divine healing as taught by the Bible, we do not make faith in it a necessary condition to membership in the church. We do not believe in physicians and medicines. When a member of our church is sick be or she sends for an elder, and he anoints her with olive oil. That is practically the whole of the ceremony. It is very simple,"

HOW THE NATIONS

of education in Germany, France and England.

Dr. Boatwright, idmself one time a student in Germany, spoke enthusiastically of the system there. There are twenty large universities, all famous and embracing among their faculties men of world-wide reputation. To become a doctor of one of these universities is to attain the highest honor in Germany. This raises the man of humblest origin to the level of the lords of the realm. The respect shown to the German professor falls little short of veneration.

The courses offered are perhaps the most advanced in the world, embracing literature, art, medicine, law and economics.

literature, art, medicine, law and economics.

Polytechnical schools are making great progress also in Germany, and four have been established in Prussia, which confer the degrees of doctor of engineering. In France, the educational system is comparatively recent, dating from 1807. Everything is highly centralized, like the government. Schools of law, medicine, art. etc., are combined in one great co-operative system. In the lower grades education is compulsory. The custom of having religious instruction given has been abolished. Now no teacher is allowed to wear the robes of the Catholic Church, as formetly. The French are Catholic in name, but Nationalists in thought and action.

In England education at the great universities of Oxford and Cambridge is somewhat behind the times. For journalists and diplomats, perhaps no better school could be found than the latter, but for law, medicine and business these courses would not be of so great value. In all countries the same defects in education are notleeable. Children will not stay in school long enough to derive all the benefit possible from them. There are too many women teachers, from the fact that the compensation is too small to attract the class of menneded, and there is too little interest taken in general education by the clitzens of the different countries.

In closing, Dr. Boatwright very gracefully alluded to the educational exhibition at St. Louis, and wished that all present would attend and see with their own eyes the advance that had been made in this important public trust, and become enthused with the spirit of educational progress.

I cheerfully recommend and endorse the Great Remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, for kidney trouble and bad liver. I have used it and derived great benefit from it. I believe it has cured meentirely of kidney and liver trouble, from which I suffered terribly.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for many kinds of diseases, and if permitted to continue much suffering and fatal results are sure to follow. Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dzzy, restiess, sleepless and irritable. Makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night. Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints and muscles; make your head ache and back ache, cause indigestion, stomach and liver trouble, you get a sallow, yellow complexion, make you feel as though you had heart trouble; you may have plenty of ambition, but no strength; get weak and waste away.
